

County Granges To Buy Towels

To Be Used in Fayette County Hospital

Announcement was made Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the Selden Grange that the county Grange project for the year would be the purchase of surgical towels for the Fayette County Memorial Hospital.

The material for the towels is to be purchased under the direction of Miss Christine Evans, consultant and administrator of the new hospital.

Announcement was made that the following committees had been appointed: Degree work—Mrs. Lorene Sollars, Marion Widdle, Roy Wipert, Mary Ann Morter and Kenneth Bush; Fair exhibits—Robert I. Case, Geraldine Yahn, Kenneth Bush, Herbert Perrill, Harold Ivers, Helen Perrill, Robert Hook and Mrs. Edna Wilson, and membership—Ralph Nisley, Beryl Cavine, Helen June Waddle, W. H. Theobald, Mrs. Carsie Garringer, Mrs. Alice Bush and Mrs. Ethel Cavine.

Mrs. Carsie Garringer gave an interesting report on home economics activities. She said the state Grange cooking contest for this year is to be on date oatmeal bars.

Lecture Program Presented

Helen June Waddle, chairman of the youth committee related a number of activities in which youth groups could participate. She asked for an expression from the parents and the youth of the type of program they would prefer. The committee will have something to present at the next meeting.

Due to the illness of Mrs. Mae Montgomery, the lecture program was in charge of Past Lecturer, Mrs. Ethel Cavine. The program opened with a roll call, "An incident in the life of Washington, Lincoln or Franklin".

Mrs. Nelson Case read "A Great Gentleman at Home", descriptive of Washington and his Mt. Vernon home.

Roy Wipert read a paper on the part that Lincoln played in agricultural legislation during his term as president. Three acts that he mentioned were included the act establishing the department of agriculture, the Homestead Act, and the Merrill Act, which provided for the establishment of land grant colleges.

Robert Case read a review of the Declaration of Independence by Lincoln, and Mrs. Cavine read an interesting article on Washington as a farm implement inventor.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sollars, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davis, Miss Frances Ging, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Belt and W. W. Montgomery.

The board accepted with regret the resignation of Mrs. Luella Puckett, secretary in Supt. Brown's office. Mrs. Puckett is moving from this district to Highland. The resignation is effective March 10.

In a previous, special meeting, the board had appointed Brown to take over the purchasing agent's duties until another is employed to replace Dana Hyer, whose resignation became effective January 31.

Miss Wanda Plantz, secretary in the superintendent's office, was appointed by the board to assume the duties of clerk for the board until clerk-purchasing agent successor to Hyer is employed.

homes, braced for what may be the worst flood threat since 1927. More than 1,300 families were evacuated by floodwaters of secondary rivers.

The floods, caused by seepage and backing up, engulfed more than 650,000 acres of lowlands over a rough triangle from Natchez, Miss., to Alexandria, La., to near Baton Rouge. The lands are mostly those which are expected to go under water at high river stages.

At Cairo, where the rising Ohio joins the Mississippi, the city's 15 major industries started closing to save scarce fuel for pumping operations. The Ohio surged to 55.6 feet. It was expected to crest tomorrow at 56.5 feet, 3.5 feet short of the lowest flood wall protecting the southern Illinois community of 15,000.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15—(AP)—Most grain contracts tilted lower on the Board of Trade today, but new crop wheat deliveries staged an advance in late dealings. Late buying in the new crop contracts was reflected in a former tone for March, off more than a cent in early dealings.

The late buying in the deferred wheat contracts was in part based on private reports more moisture was still needed in parts of the winter wheat area, although the drought situation had been greatly improved.

Early selling followed trade reports the Commodity Credit Corporation would extend to Marshall Plan countries its program of selling some of its holding to private exporters. Heretofore, private exporters could buy CCC grain only if they exported it to non-Marshall Plan nations.

The trade report lacked official confirmation, but it was generally accepted as correct by grain houses and local traders.

Income Tax Explanations

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—(AP)— Watch your exemptions in making your 1949 income tax return.

For each one you can rightfully claim, $600 is knocked off your income before what's left can be taxed.

Everyone who had $600 or more income in 1949 must file a return. But—everyone who files
a return:

1. Is allowed a $600 exemption for himself; plus $600 if he was blind in 1949; plus $600 if he was 65 or older in 1949.

2. If his wife had no income or files a joint return with him, he's allowed a $600 exemption for her; plus $600 if she was blind in 1949;
plus $600 if she was 65 or older in 1949.

3. And he's allowed a $600 exemption for each dependent he can claim. That's all he gets for a dependent. There is no added $600 exemption because a dependent is blind or 65.

The rules covering wives and dependents are not the same because a wife is not classified as a dependent. So watch them.

The wife—
If she had any income, no matter how small, the husband can claim no exemption for her unless she files jointly with him.

What of a wife who is claimed as a dependent by somebody else, such as her father, who may have supported her? Can she file jointly with her husband?

Yes, but then the person who supported her can't claim her.
However, if she wants her father, who supported her, to have her exemption she should not file a joint return with her husband.
She can't be an exemption on two different returns.

If she files her own return,
then she claims her own $600 exemption. The husband, in that case, gets no exemption for her.
On his return he can claim only his own exemptions.

Example: The husband's salary was $5,000. The wife had $40 income from baby sitting, or sewing, or something else. Since her income was less than $600, she doesn't have to file a return.

But—since she had income—unless she files jointly with her husband, he loses the $600 exemption for her.

Dependents—
There's a queer twist in the law on dependents. As pointed out before, anyone with $600 or more income must file his own return and claim his own $600 exemption. If his income was less than $600, he does not have to file a return, but—

A person who had $500 or more income—even though that's $100 less than the $600 income which would require him to file a return in his own right—cannot be claimed as a dependent by anyone. That doesn't make sense, but that's the law.

You can claim as a dependent any close relative of any age—age doesn't matter—who got more than half his support from you in 1949 and had less than $500 income of his own.

You can claim as a dependent
only these close relatives:

Your child or grandchild; a stepchild but not his children; a legally adopted child; a brother, sister, step-brother, step-sister;
your parents, grandparents, or other ancestors; your step-father;
step-mother; aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews, all related by blood; and your in-laws: father-mother-sister-brother-son-daughter-in-law.

You can claim as a dependent for the full year a child born to you any time in 1949, even though it died a moment after birth.

You can't claim as a dependent an unborn child or one born dead.

What of a dependent who died in 1949? You can claim a full $600 exemption for him, even though he died as early as Jan. 1, 1949, provided he was truly a dependent during the part of the year he was alive.

Reed Stresses Lime Need Here

Extension Specialist Speaks to Farmers

In line with the extension service's policy of educating farmers on the importance of liming and fertilizer, E. P. Reed, extension agronomist at Ohio State University, spoke to some 60 Fayette County farmers Tuesday night in the Farm Bureau auditorium.

Reed described the lime situation in western Ohio as getting more and more serious.

Recourse to commercially prepared lime, however, is bringing greater production for farmers who apply it to the soil, the speaker told his audience, largely made up of GI students enrolled in vocational agriculture courses.

"If we lime soil we can grow better alfalfa and higher quality legumes . . . This increases the productiveness for other crops," Reed declared.

The speaker said: "We're on the threshold of decreasing prices.
This means more economy all along the way. The farmer must keep his yields high."

Reed said the extension department at Ohio State was recommending agricultural ground limestone as the type of lime which most farmers find practical for use.

The importance of using the right type of fertilizer was also stressed. Soil samples, when analyzed will assist in determining what type should be used.

Reed said fertilizer is finding wide use, especially in the south.
He said an increasing number of farmers are using fertilizer in their meadow stands.

A technicolor movie which pictured the importance of nitrogen to crops was shown following Reed's talk to those in attendance at the meeting.

Beware of Pictureless Picture Windows

Washington C. H. and other parts of Fayette County have been going through their share of new residence building and some very attractive homes have been the result. With the number of new dwelling houses constructed this year and with many still in the process of being built, all over the country, there is noticeable in quite a number of instances quite a fad being made of the picture window.

Where there is a lovely vista through one's own or neighboring yards, parkway, orchard or across rippling water, this seems to fit in splendidly. It brings the beauty of out-of-doors into the comfortable home.

Where the big window looks out on the small but well maintained backyard garden it has the value on a smaller scale of the greater view. Outdoor charm thus is added to an indoor sense of more generous space.

There is seen now and then, however, a picture window which merely looks out on a busy street with a view only of cars, trucks and pedestrians. In such cases the expanse of clear plate glass appears to lose point. It seems to take away home privacy and invites restlessness at the same time. Here is something for the prospective home builder to think about before it is too late.

In talking with a small group of building authorities the other day, we heard one of them call attention to the point that corner windows, too, need study and architectural imagination before being placed in any small new house. In some rooms such windows are delightful. In others they make it very hard for the home-keeper to give her finished room the sense of balance which makes the room restful. A large room with a pair of balanced corner windows is one thing; a small room with one which dominates it creates a different problem.

In the nineties there was a similar rash of faddy windows. Then it was worse because it took the form of queer excrescences with windows of strange shapes and often borders of stained glass of strange, too-bright, too varied colors. It took quite a while for builders to discover all over again the beauty of symmetry and simplicity. These latter are great virtues in houses, in clothes, in lives. Too many people, apparently, have to learn about them the hard way.

For those who remember history best when it is administered in small doses, here summed up in two lines is Russia's postwar record:

Chief Russian weapon, the veto.
Chief Russian obstacle, Tito.

An election is looming up in Greece, and 86 different political parties have already appeared. This does something toward justifying the gibe, "Where there are three Greeks, there are three parties."

The slogging infantryman who was on intimate terms with mud in the last war has learned—the stuff is persistent.

We must be returning to normal. The matter of a new car is again becoming a periodic question in the American family.

Glasses have an amazing effect on vision—especially after they have been filled and emptied several times.

Man Breaks Bricks on His Head

By Hal Boyle

CAMBRIDGE, Md.—(AP)—You never heard of rats that raise kittens? Or foxes chasing dogs? Or about the fellow who's been breaking bricks over his head for 30 years?

Well, come to Maryland's eastern shore. They've got 'em all here—plus golden-fried chicken, beaten biscuits, oysters, and whistling swans in the Choptank River.

It is one of the most colorful legends in America, where descendants of the men who beat the Pilgrims across still live close to the sea and soil, and earn their bread from each.

"The Choptank Indians—Choptank means blue water—used to be here, too," said Emmett Andrews. "But they pulled up the bones of their ancestors and moved away."

Andrews, a former high school principal, knows more about wild life and gussy people you don't find in many books. He came out of the Tidal Marshes himself to get his college-learning, and he loves to go back to the marshes, for they never lose their tidal pull for their own.

How can rats raise kittens, Mr. Andrews?

"Oh, they're muskrats, and their young are called kittens."

They have several litters a year. "The muskrat is a wonderful animal—so clean. It lives on roots in the marshes, and it washes every root before it eats it."

"I never knew a muskrat that could be tamed. It is one of the few animals that will gnaw off its leg to get out of a trap, and I have caught them with only one leg left—and that one in a trap."

"He's a very strong animal except at the tip of the nose. When you trap one, you just hit him across the nose with a twig, drop him in your sack and go home. You can kill one with a lead pencil by hitting him across the nose."

And about foxes chasing dogs, Mr. Andrews?

"Well, the hound dogs had the foxes pretty well thinned out here. But as the farmers began keeping fewer hound dogs the foxes came back."

"One time a few years back some foxes got tired of being annoyed by one particularly bothersome hound dog. So they just ganged up one day and turned on him and chased the hound clear back into the farmyard—so the farmer said."

H-m-m-m-mmm. "And about the fellow who breaks bricks over his head Mr. Andrews? Why?"

Oh, you mean Charley Willey? He started breaking bricks over his head 30 years ago as a stunt. He'd bet you a nickel he could do it—all in fun.

"Once we told him as a joke, 'Charlie, you used a soft brick that time.' So he got a second brick and broke it over his head, and there wasn't much we could do except pay over the nickel." Hasn't this ever hurt him?

"Oh, no, not as far as anyone could tell. He's 63 and a grandfather now. Works at a sawmill. 'Every year we hold an outdoor show here. Charlie goes up on the stage and breaks bull pine shingles over his head for the crowd. He wouldn't miss it for anything. Had to this year though—sick.'"

A headache maybe?

"Oh, no. I don't think Charlie ever had a headache. Too bad he isn't here himself to tell you about the time he challenged the ram."

How's that, Mr. Andrews?

"Well, Charlie was walking along a road when he saw this ram. He climbed over the fence and got down on his hands and knees, facing the ram. You know a ram won't bother you if you're on your feet, but if you get down to his level he thinks you're a ram, too."

"So this ram saw Charlie, lowered his head and charged. And Charlie lowered his head, braced his hands and waited."

And what happened, Mr. Andrews?

"Well, everybody says the ram died of a broken neck. Anyway Charlie is still breaking bricks over his head."

"Mr. Jones?—I'm Mr. Jones—or did you wish to see OLD Mr. Jones?"

Diet and Health Potassium Needed By Human Body

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

POTASSIUM is one of those substances which the body must have and yet a very small amount serves to satisfy this need. Without this trace, however, drastic changes take place. Normal passage of the nerve impulses is blocked to the extent that muscular weakness or even paralysis results.

There is a condition called periodic paralysis which seems to run in families and is connected with potassium deficiency. There is weakness in the legs which may spread to other muscles in the body. The condition comes on in attacks which may last a few hours to several days. Fatigue, exposure to cold, or overeating may bring on the symptoms.

Use of Sugars
It seems that this condition is associated closely with some disturbance in the use of sugars by the body. However, it has been found that giving potassium salts completely abolishes the symptoms.

Sometimes babies with severe diarrhea lose a great deal of potassium with the result that acidosis or lessening of the amount of alkaline in the blood and tissues occurs.

In treating this condition, solutions containing potassium are given by injection under the skin or into a vein.

Acidosis may also occur in diabetes and in such cases a potassium deficiency must be considered. Here, also, injections of fluids containing potassium into a vein is necessary.

Another disorder called Addison's disease, which is due to a disturbance of the adrenal glands above the kidney, is also accompanied by a potassium deficiency, particularly when the patient is eating a diet low in this substance. Hence, in this condition also, the use of foods containing this substance is important. Such foods as beef, beans, nuts, and milk are rich in potassium.

The same is true of a disorder known as steatorrhea, in which there is an increased loss of potassium in the bowel movement because of the excessive amounts of fats present in the bowel. Not only a deficiency of potassium occur in this disorder, but also a lack of calcium or lime, so that these substances may have to be administered to make good the loss.

Safe Warmth for little pigs

Little pigs kept warm and dry in home-made electric brooder on Paul Ryan Farm, R. R. #1, Milford Center, Ohio

Electric Brooder saves early pigs for profitable marketing

Little pigs farrowed in cold weather have a hard time keeping warm without getting hurt by the heavy sow rolling over on them. Use of an electric brooder reduces the loss of little pigs as much as 50% during the first 5 to 10 days—according to I. P. Blauser, Agricultural Engineering Specialist of the Ohio State University.

New born pigs, farrowed in time for finishing during the best marketing season, need a warm corner where they can be kept safe and comfortable. Factory-made electric pig brooders are available, but any farmer can make practical home-made ones such as the five used on the Paul Ryan Farm, Rural Route No. 1, Milford Center, Ohio.

Most common method is the use of an incandescent lamp of 100 to 150 watts, mounted in a suitable reflector—even an old aluminum dishpan will do. Some use the new 150 watt heat lamp with built-in reflector. Others use strip or space heaters of 150 to 200 watts, or an infra-red heat lamp. Costs range from one to five dollars, according to what parts have to be bought. An infra-red heat lamp with rheostat for varying output of the lamp may cost as much as fifteen dollars.

For drawings and plans for making home-made pig brooders, see your county agricultural agent, the local vocational agricultural teacher, or the farm representative of your electric service company.

Wedding Vows Exchanged In New Home of Couple

Miss Ruth Jane Sexton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Sexton, 425 Vandeman Avenue, became the bride of Mr. Joseph V. Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bryan, of the White Road, on Tuesday evening, February 14, at seven thirty o'clock in the evening.

The setting for the wedding was the living room of the newly constructed home of the couple on the White Road.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. D. J. Macdonald, before a mantel banked with high arrangements of white snapdragons, extending the full length, with seven branch candelabra holding white tapers on either side of the fireplace, casting a soft glow on the white satin kneeling bench.

Recordings of wedding music summoned the wedding party.

Mrs. Gretchen K. Williams, of Winnetka, Illinois, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor and her only attendant, and Mr. John D. Bryan, brother of the groom, attended him as best man.

The attractive bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a bluish evening length gown with a fitted bodice, wide rounded neckline, featuring tucks, long pointed sleeves, a large bustle bow in the back over the skirt, which fell in graceful folds.

Her fingertip veil of bluish illusion, was held in place by a satin cloche matching her gown, with pink rosebuds lining the narrow brim framing her face.

Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom, and she carried a white prayer book topped with white stephanotis, centered with a white orchid and white streamers were knotted with white rosebuds and gold hearts.

Mrs. Williams was wearing a turquoise satin gown, fashioned along simple lines. She wore a wreath of pink rosebuds in her hair and carried a bouquet of orchid and pink snapdragons.

The bride's mother chose a grey crepe dress, accented with pink accessories, and Mrs. Bryan wore a blue crepe dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore gardenia corsages.

Later a reception for the sixty guests, made up of the families of the bride and groom and close friends, was held and the dining room was decorated with arrangements of white snapdragons and red carnations.

The bride's table, presided over by Miss Mary Jane Lininger and Miss Jean Buchanan, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a silver wedding bell and red and white rosebuds, surrounded by silver leaves and smilax, with white tapers providing a soft light.

The appointments used were crystal and silver.

Later, when the new Mr. and Mrs. Bryan left on a short honeymoon through the southern states, the bride had changed to a three piece blue and white pincheek wool suit with matching hat, other accessories of brown and a Kolinsky scarf.

Her white orchid from her wedding bouquet, pinned at her shoulder, completed her modish ensemble.

Upon their return, they will take up their residence in their new home.

The bride, a graduate of Washington High School, attended Ohio University, Athens, and until her marriage, held the position of secretary at the First National Bank.

Mr. Bryan, a graduate of Wayne High School, Good, Hope, attended Ohio State University. After serving two years in the U. S. Air Corps in World War II, he has since been engaged in farming with his father.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Gretchen K. Williams, of Winnetka, Ill., Mr. and

Plans Completed For Musicale at Class Meeting

A large attendance of members of the Marguerite Class of the First Presbyterian Church assembled at the home of Mrs. Hilbert Meyer for the regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening.

Opening devotionals were led by Miss Clara Davis who read scripture and closed with the Lord's Prayer repeated by the group. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Ruth Chaney and Mrs. Sterling Fox gave the treasurer's report.

A substantial contribution was made to the March of Dimes, and other contributions were made.

A lengthy discussion was held on the musicale to be held at the church Sunday February 19 at 4 P. M. to be sponsored by the class, and final arrangements were completed.

The highlights of the meeting was the white elephant sale, with Mrs. Marguerite Powell as the auctioneer which created a pleasurable as well as a profitable period.

During the social hour a tempting salad course was served by the hostess assisted Mrs. Charles Mrs. Herman Kinder, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ross, Miss Mary Jane Lininger, Miss Jean Buchanan, of Columbus, Misses Arlene and Alberta Workman, Mr. Bob Appleton, of Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Joseph Schilder of Chillicothe, and Mr. E. E. McDonald of Derby.

New Engines Feature 1951 Model K-F Cars

One of the features of the three new lines of Kaiser-Frazer cars will be the three new engines bearing the name "Supersonic," Don Scholl, the K-F dealer here said as he made ready for next month's debut of the 1951 models. Scholl did not say when the new cars would be put on display later, but added he thought it probably would be late in March.

Details of one of the new power for the K-F line have been disclosed Scholl said.

The engines, Scholl said, will be produced to K-F specifications by Willis-Overland Motors, Inc. Details for two of them—a four and six for the forthcoming low-priced line—will be released later.

The 115-hp unit was described as "newly designed" and is regarded as a victory over friction and vibration "rather than the result of wasteful 'sopping up' of the power plant."

The engine was built, a company statement said, for the "balanced body-chassis" design of the new cars.

A center-of-gravity type mounting was called "an important factor contributing to smoothness of operation."

Other features to reduce friction and vibration were given as: engine block rigidity, 100 per cent counter-balanced crankshaft, auto thermic pistons with flash chrome upper ring, new oil pan and dropping oil level below crankshaft stroke to keep oil cool and eliminate churning action of pistons. "Mushroom" type tappets are said to quiet the motor.

Line-ups Posted for County Tourney Opener Thursday

Probable starting line-ups for the county cage teams were announced as the time for the opening whistle of the tournament drew near.

All four teams have been holding drills, sharpening up their offensive attacks and plugging weaknesses in their defenses.

Opening the ceremonies at 7:30 P. M. Thursday will be the junior high squads of Wayne and Jeffersonville.

Coaches Paul Bakenhaster of Good Hope and Clyde Helsing of Jeffersonville said the following players would probably start:

Wayne Jr. High Jeff Jr. High
Dunn F. M. Smith
McFadden Coil
J. Wilt C. Wise
McMurray G. Huff
A. Wilt G. Ford

The first varsity game of the 1950 tourney will get underway at 8:30 P. M., when the league co-champion Good Hope cages take the floor against Madison Mill's Spartans.

Spartans "Confident"

Asked about the prospects of beating the Good Hope team that lost but one county game during the season, Coach Delmar Mowery said: "We feel pretty confident." He said his boys are in good spirits and looking forward to the Wayne battle.

Good Hope, on the other hand, has been beset by troubles. Their ace, Bill Anderson, was taken down with pleurisy a few weeks ago and lost about 25 pounds.

"He's gotten back most of the weight, though," said Bakenhaster, "and might see a little action Thursday night." Bakenhaster reported Anderson as saying he felt much better.

In fact, Bill worked out a little with the team Monday. Bakenhaster said he would prefer to keep Anderson rested for Friday, but named him for the starting line-up against Madison Mills.

Good Hope Madison Mills
Anderson F. Webb
Braden F. Hays
Wallace C. Wood
Davis G. Vincent
..... G. Gillenwater

The last guardpost is a toss-up between Kellenberger, Baird and McConaughy, said Bakenhaster, depending upon which one looks better in the final practice.

The fans of Good Hope will be glad to see the Davis' name in the line-up. His doctor gave Davis permission to play in the tourney.

Jeffs-Bulldogs Toss-up
The flip of the coin for Thursday night, however, will have to be made for the 9:30 P. M. match between the Jeffersonville Tigers, league co-champions and the Bloomington Bulldogs.

The Bloomington squad worked out at Sedalia gym Tuesday, while the Jeffs held drills on their own court. Both coaches, Helsing of the Jeffs and Don Compton of Bloomington, ventured no predictions about Thursday's opener.

Everyone knows it will be a tough one.

Helsing said his starting line-up would be picked from the following six players, while Compton named his starters, with Bowman in the utility spot.

For the Jeffs: Young, Smith, Swaney, Cornell, Long and Anderson. For the Bulldogs: Nelson and McArthur at forward, Cook at center and Denen and Robinson at guard, with Bowman as utility man.

21 Indians Signed; 17 More To Come

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians had 21 of their 38 players in the fold today.

Bob Kennedy, outfielder and third baseman, signed yesterday and first baseman Mickey Vernon was due to discuss contract terms today with General Manager Hank Greenberg.

Vernon said he would welcome competition for the post from Luke Easter and Herb Conyers.

The club yesterday also announced the signing of Bill Proverbs, 18-year-old pitcher who starred for Youngstown Chaney High School. He was expected to be assigned to a farm club.

Frank McCormick New Lima Manager

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15—(AP)—Frank McCormick, for 11 years an outstanding first baseman in the National League, returned to the Philadelphia Phillies organization today as manager of the Lima, O., farm club in the Ohio-Indiana circuit.

McCormick originally joined the Phillies in 1946 after being purchased from the Cincinnati Reds at a price in the neighborhood of $40,000. He was given his unconditional release in May, 1947, and signed with the Boston Braves. He was with the Reds eight years.

Harvard Football Is Being Curtailed

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 15—(AP)—The first step in what is expected to be a drastic change of Harvard's athletic setup was made when Stanford University agreed to cancel the second half of its intersectional home-and-home football series with the Crimson, scheduled here for next Sept. 30.

Announcement of the cancellation was made yesterday by Provost Paul H. Buck, a top ranking Harvard official, who recently submitted a secret report on all athletics to the university corporation.

Buck explained that Stanford was dropped in order "to lighten a far too heavy football schedule" and that the Sept. 30 date would not be filled during the 1950 season.

Last fall Harvard, which won only one of its nine games, opened the most disastrous season in its long gridiron history by bowing to Stanford, 44-0, at Palo Alto, Calif.

Baseball Business Is Done in Office

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 15—(AP)—If you want to succeed as a baseball business manager, take good care of the players, work hard, and above all, don't try to run the ball club.

That's straight from Burt Shotton, pilot of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and George M. Trautman, who bosses the minor leagues.

They spoke last night at the class in baseball business management conducted by Florida Southern College—first of the kind ever undertaken.

Shotton told the 45 students, including one girl, if they tried to tell the players what to do on the field "they probably would have a little trouble."

"The business manager's activities go as far as the fence (to the playing field)—from there on control is up to the baseball manager," Trautman said.

McCormick originally joined the Phillies in 1946 after being purchased from the Cincinnati Reds at a price in the neighborhood of $40,000. He was given his unconditional release in May, 1947, and signed with the Boston Braves. He was with the Reds eight years.

Babe Zaharias Top Athlete

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—(AP)—For twenty years a slender American girl of Norwegian blood has dominated women's sports internationally. So it was to be expected that Babe Didrikson Zaharias would be overwhelmingly selected as the greatest female athlete of the first half of the twentieth century.

Eleventh and last of the sports titans chosen in the Associated Press midcentury poll, the Babe is unchallenged in versatility.

She won world fame at the 1932 Olympic games by taking two gold medals and losing a third on a technicality. In 1947 she became the first American to win the British women's golf championship.

Derby Candidates In Hialeah Race

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 15—(AP)—Two of the probable Kentucky Derby favorites—Calumet Farm's Theory and Tom Gray's Oil Capitol—meet in a race at Hialeah Park today, overshadowing the featured $7,500 Columbian Handicap on the same program.

Theory and Oil Capitol, each carrying 124 pounds, will compete with six other three olds in the Crandon Park purse, a seven furlong event. Both are liked for the Rich Turf Classic in May.

T third Derby candidate, George D. Widener's Lights Up, carrying 112 pounds, also is a Derby candidate. Others in the Crandon Park purse include Calumet's courage, to go as an entry with Theory, Kinsman, Didapper, Gigo and Stranded.

Theory has been out twice this year, winning the Bahamas Handicap. It will be the first start in 1950 for Oil Capitol and Lights Up.

Santa Clara Coach Quits To Go To Pitt

SANTA CLARA, Calif., Feb. 15—(AP)—The resignation of Len Casanova as head football coach of Santa Clara University was accepted last night at a stormy session of the board of athletic control.

Casanova quit, presumably, to become head coach at the University of Pittsburgh.

Calumet Farm's hope for a third straight Kentucky Derby victory, Theory, is going along steadily in training at Hialeah.

Boston College Back In Good Standing

MEDFORD, Mass., Feb. 15—(AP)—Boston College, one of the seven member colleges that escaped expulsion from the NCAA for violations of its "sanity code," today was back in that organization's good graces and eligible to compete in all of its championships.

The Eagles' return to good standing was announced by Clarence P. Houston of Tufts College, chairman of the NCAA "sanity code" compliance committee.

Kaufmen Hold Lead When Marks Slump

The Kaufmen today were still in the top spot of the Commercial League principally because the Mark Constructors muffed their golden opportunity in Tuesday night's bowling at Bowland.

The pace setting Kaufmen won their first game from the Cudahy Packers—and then fluffed out in the last two. They held only a single game lead on the Mark crew, and that left the gate to first place wide open to the runners-up.

But, the Constructors blew their chance. They could do no better than the Kaufmen. They won only the middle tilt from the Helfrich Marketeers.

So, the upper crust of the league is just like it was before the teams took the alleys.

The Brown & Brockmeyer outfit was handed three games when the Farm Bureau forfeited, but the Sunlights took three the hard way by whitewashing Carroll Halliday's boys.

The three-game win put the Sunlights in fourth place and the Halliday crew in fifth. They just traded places.

The high team total was racked up by the Kaufmen—2718 without handicap. Thompson, the team's sparkplug, pulled out all the stops and hung up a total of 627 with games of 203, 188 and 236.

Idaho Dog Derby Is To Be Revived

ASHTON, Idaho, Feb. 15—(AP)—This snowy little mountain town—dogged capital of the nation—will reinstate its colorful dog derby Washington's birthday.

At least eight experienced mushers will enter the 28th annual running of the event with their yapping teams. Prizes totaling $1,500 will be distributed.

The course is two miles long, shaped like a huge keyhole. Everett Heseaman of Ashton made the record for five laps around its sharp curves in 40 minutes 31 seconds in 1938.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
MICHAEL SHAYNE hadn't, of course, expected a definite and outright offer over the telephone. Such delicate negotiations were never carried on baldly and openly. The go-between didn't expect nor wish to know the identity of the person with whom arrangements were made. That way, there was never any proof of collusion. A device that Shayne had used in the past was to park his car, unlocked, at a pre-arranged spot and time with an envelope thrust down behind the seat containing the agreed upon sum in large bills. After conscientiously leaving it unwatched for fifteen minutes, one expected to return and find the envelope gone, mysteriously replaced by the stolen gems. A particularly wise precaution to observe in a case like that was to have a witness present when the jewels were found in the car, thus defeating any suggestion of pre-arrangement. Once, Shayne recalled, he had had the pleasure of using Peter Painter himself as the witness to prove that Shayne had been inside a bar a block away when the stolen property was being returned.

It was because of this very definitely understood procedure that Shayne was now so puzzled by Blackie's reaction to his telephone call tonight. Even if the mob planned to use some other intermediary for collecting an insurance reward there was no good reason to get sore at a man merely because he offered his services. The more he puzzled over it, the angrier he became. It could only be construed as a clear warning for him to keep his nose out of the affair. The second such warning he had received in the course of a few hours, he reminded himself sourly. First, Painter. Then the man whom Blackie had designated as the Boss.

Shayne didn't like warnings. He didn't react to them very well. He drained his glass and set it down, carefully touched the vivid swelling on his jaw with rough fingertips, then got up and left the bar. He drove across the County Causeway swiftly, turned south on Biscayne Boulevard, and parked his damaged sedan a few minutes later in the hotel garage.

Only the night clerk was on duty when Shayne crossed to the elevator. The man blinked sleepily at the uninvited side of the detective's face and muttered, "G'night, Mr. Shayne," and settled back in his chair.

The elevator boy widened his eyes and rolled them sideways until only the whites showed when he saw the lump on Shayne's jaw, but swallowed his questions and took him up to the third floor.

The door was unlatched, and Shayne was surprised to find his living room light on when he went in. He had forgotten Lucy's promise to wait there for him no matter how late he was, but he remembered it when he saw a pair of pink mules on the living room floor. Closing the door quietly, he stood tugging at his earlobe for a moment. He pursed his lips in a soundless whistle, went quietly across to the bedroom door and bent his head to listen attentively. He could hear no sound from the closed room. She had probably been asleep and weary of waiting, and had decided to take a nap.

He turned away and removed his hat and coat, went into the bathroom and grimaced at the reflection that looked back at him from the mirror.

Cold water took all the blood away, but it didn't help the puffed bruise much. He then went into the kitchen and filled a tall glass with ice and water, carried it into the living room with a smaller empty glass. After filling the smaller glass with Monnet, he lit a cigarette on which he puffed slowly between alternate sips of ice water and cognac.

Except for his throbbing chin, he had never felt better and more at peace with the world. His gaze kept straying to the pair of pink mules on the floor. Lucy had probably become discouraged over the little game she had been playing all evening, and he thought of her curled up on the big double bed, asleep.

The cognac glass was half empty and he was working on his second cigarette when a rap sounded on the outer door.

Shayne sat very still. The knock was repeated. It wasn't loud, yet it didn't have a furtive sound. It was a light, casual rap yet persistent, indicating that his caller knew he was at home and expected him to answer the summons.

He got up quietly, picked up the bedroom slippers and tiptoed into the kitchen where he slipped them into a drawer. There were two more raps on the door as he finished taking this precaution. He went to the door and opened it, blocking the entrance with his body for a moment, then took a backward step when he recognized his visitor.

Timothy Rourke strolled over the threshold with a quizzical look at Shayne's bruised and cut jaw. "I saw the light under your door and knew you must be home. Painter hang that one on you?"

He crossed to the center table and nodded approvingly at the cognac bottle, went to a wall cupboard and got out a tall thin-stemmed glass without waiting for an invitation.

The reporter was tall and loosely put together. He had regained some weight and a great deal of his former buoyancy since his long period of hospitalization, though his face was still thin and his eyes were deeply sunken in his face.

Shayne closed the door and came back to resume his seat while Rourke poured himself a drink of cognac. He said, "Make yourself comfortable, Tim. I can only think of a few thousand people in Miami I'd rather see right now."

Plot To Kill Is Broken Up

HANNOVER, Germany, Feb. 15—(AP)—An old-time Nazi was under arrest here today on charges of plotting to kill West German President Theodor Heuss.

Chief of Detectives Friedrich Peter of the Hannover police quoted the arrested man as saying:

"I lost my job and my bread by the democratic state and I intended to murder the representative of this democratic state."

It was revealed the man has been under arrest for three months and his sanity is being examined. He was picked up in Darmstadt in the American zone six days after President Heuss had visited Hannover last Nov. 30.

Police found a diary on the man outlining his plans to kill Heuss with a bomb at the Hannover railway station.

Big Hobby Show In Offing Here Officers State

Hobbyists Evidence
Much Interest
In Coming Display

The annual Fayette County Hobby Show, sponsored by the Fayette County Hobby Club, and held in connection with the annual corn, grain and egg show at the Armory, Feb. 23, 24 and 25, is attracting much attention among hobbyists generally.

F. Scott Zimmerman, president of the Hobby Club, calls attention to the fact that the show is open to any resident of Fayette County, whether they are members of the club or not. All persons are invited to exhibit in any of the classes.

This year an entrance fee of 25 cents must be paid on each entry to help defray expenses of the show. No admission is charged at the show.

Heretofore, the hobby club treasury has been greatly depleted by the heavy expenses connected with the show, officers state.

All exhibits must belong to the exhibitor, and all entries must be in place by 6 P. M. Thursday, Feb. 23. The show closes at 4 P. M. Saturday, and all exhibits must be moved out immediately thereafter.

A guard will be on duty day and night from the opening of the show Thursday morning, until the last items are moved out after 4 P. M. Saturday in order to protect the exhibits.

The committee in charge, co-operating with club officials, will have two out-of-county judges to judge the exhibits in the hobby show.

Classes Listed

Mrs. Mabel Briggs, member of the committee and club treasurer, said Wednesday that she has received many calls and inquiries regarding the show. Indications are that there will be a large number of exhibits.

The classes include coins, animals, pencils, dolls, stamps, model airplanes, models other than airplanes, match books, woodwork, Indian relics, guns, oddities, glass and china, (old), glass and china, (new), pitchers, cups and saucers, plates, salt and pepper shakers, salt dips, vases, oil paintings, needlework, buttons, bottles and steins, any other hobby articles such as scrapbooks, lamps and hand made rugs.

Attractive prizes are offered in the various classes, with special prizes for sweepstakes and grand champion of the show.

No person can exhibit in more than five classes. Where there is a limit fixed for number of pieces, the limit is to be observed.

The committee is endeavoring to arrange the exhibits where they can be more closely inspected than heretofore, a task which is difficult. Inasmuch as some of the exhibits are very fragile and worth large sums of money, the exhibits must necessarily be protected from the "handlers". No article is to be handled except by the judges, it is pointed out.

Negotiations had been carried on by Prime Minister Josef Stalin and Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky for the Soviet Union, and Chinese Communist leader Mao Tze-Tung and Pre-

A treaty of friendship, alliance and mutual aid calls for the fullest assistance by either party if the other is attacked by Japan "or any other state which directly or indirectly would unite in any form with Japan in acts of aggression."

The treaties bring to an end the 1945 Russo-Chinese pact, signed as the result of the Yalta agreement, in which the Soviets were given a hand in control of the Manchurian naval base at Port Arthur, the Port of Dairen and the Changchun railroad through southern Manchuria.

Farm Income Drop

their own efforts and less and less upon government appropriations in achieving this parity," the board said.

This means that cooperatives must play a significant role in assuring an adequate net income to farmers. Steps must be taken to improve the efficiency of the marketing and procurement of farmers' supplies.

"In 1950 the average consumer will spend 16 percent of his disposable income for food, a decrease of four per cent since 1940. Cheap food at government cost is not necessary or sound," the board said.

Quotas and marketing agreements should be adopted only as a last resort, the directors said, because they penalize the efficient farmer and lower the production per unit per man.

The board also:

- 1) Asked Congress to look into the possibility of expanding the school lunch program and the food stamp plan for low income groups.

- 2) Declared there should be sufficient flexibility between the support prices of agricultural products as to reflect changes in cost and demand, so the farmer can shift from one product to another to get the highest return.

- 3) Said the family sized farm in America must be maintained.

- 4) Urged medical facilities be expanded in most of the rural areas.

- 5) Called for an expansion of the crop insurance program.

- 6) Urged proper soil conservation practices be made an integral part of the farm program.

- 7) Said a plan is needed for cushioning declines in prices and incomes in the event of a general recession.

23 WHS Cagers Are Quarantined

Wilmington Player
Had Meningitis

Twenty-three members of the Washington H. S. varsity and reserve basketball teams were home under quarantine today on recommendation of Health Commissioner Gordon E. Savage.

The action was taken as a precaution after it was learned that Wilmington high school reserve team player, Henri Escalona, who played here against the WHS reserves last Friday was stricken with cerebrospinal meningitis.

Consulting with the Health Department here after receiving a call Tuesday from Supt. H. W. Hodson of the Wilmington school, Supt. Stephen C. Brown and WHS Principal Arthur E. Wohlers decided to safeguard, beyond every doubt, the health of the players and their schoolmates.

Meantime, the Health Department here was being notified of the case by the Clinton County Health Department.

Must Stay In Homes

The players were instructed to remain in their homes and not to return to school until next Tuesday. A state health regulation requires a "ten-day quarantine" from the date of last exposure to this type of disease.

Wohlers immediately called Greenfield McClain and Dayton Wilbur Wright high schools and postponed the games scheduled with those schools this coming Friday and Saturday. He said the games will probably be played on a future open date.

Fans Out of Danger

The spectators who attended the WHS-Wilmington game here Friday night are not considered in danger by the Health Department. Even varsity Coach Steve Lewis and reserve Coach Ronald Guinn are not under quarantine. The Health Department said the only ones to be really concerned about were those in actual contact with Escalona on the floor. That singled out the reserve players, but the precaution was extended to include the varsity players.

Escalona was taken to Springfield City Hospital Monday night and the Wilmington players were quarantined to their homes immediately for 10 days.

Only one member of the two WHS squads escaped the quarantine. He is Bob Alkire, who is recovering from an illness that has kept him out of uniform for the past week and a half.

Members of the varsity team under quarantine are Norman Pope, Ed Pensyl, Bradley Neff, John Jordan, Ted Shelton, Dave Sheidler, Ivan Blair, Barry Smith, Russ Archer, Ken Robinette and Fred Brandenburg.

The reserve team sent home included Jack Rettig, Norm Crosswhite, Wayne Van Meter, Bud Dawson, Al Grillo, Lloyd Arnold, Walt Plymale, John Pensyl, Don Foster, Homer Shelton, Dave Crone and Bill Humphries.

Supt. Brown and Prin. Wohlers personally put through telephone calls to the parents to explain the situation and to allay any undue fears.

They explained that the homes would be placarded in order to "avoid hysteria," but they made it plain that the boys were expected to remain by themselves.

The parents, the school officials said, "were grateful" for the precautions that had been taken and promised full cooperation in enforcement of the quarantine period.

Physicians Here To Talk with Surgeons

Members of the staff of the new Fayette County Memorial Hospital have made plans to invite two or three qualified surgeons to this city in the near future for a discussion. The surgeons seek to serve in the new hospital.

Members of the hospital staff here met Tuesday night at the home of Dr. J. H. Persinger to formulate rules and regulations for the hospital. A decision was made on clinical charts for patients.
